

One of the world's leaders in skin healing is in Switzerland.

They report that 10% of post-operative surgery results in a non-healing wound. Despite taking the greatest care, the surgeon has a problem. Dermateam has the answer.

They found that treating with CellSonic VIPP after the operation always caused the inflicted wound to heal. Moreover, anti-biotics were not needed because the VIPP effect kills any infection on, in or under the wound. This reduces the patient's antibacterial resistance.
